THE VOGUE

MRS. CLOVER

To The Tobacco Growers of Henry County

We take this method of advising the farmers who have not as yet "delivered any of their 1915 crop of tobacco," that we have purchased, to know we expect their tobacco. Our records show about 30 farmers who have not delivered any on their contracts, and a number who have not finished. Some may think after the first of June their contracts have expired, while they have only violated their part of same by not having delivered on or before this date.

We expect every farmer that does not deliver tobacco that we have contracted for, to give an account of his crop, whether or not he is responsible. This tobacco was bought in good faith, sold in good faith; had the market declined, our contracts many of them, would have run far beyond what they were estimated. Our people are looking to us for all tobacco contracted for by us, and we are compelled to account for it through the farmer from whom purchased.

We are sorry that unexpected conditions developed, where tobacco advanced, and all the farmers did not reap this benefit, while on the other hand had it declined, every grower would have expected us to take tobacco as per contract, even though it was necessary to appeal to the law for protection, we are sorry, but it seems very necessary that we appeal to the law for protection, with some of our customers and if our contracts are no good, abandon them.
